I sola Madre earthly paradise, trees with golden leaves, gilded by the sun. Where one expected to see emerge from behind a bush some grave and gentle sultan whit his precious yagatan and silk costume. It is the most voluptuous place i ever saw om earth. Nature unfolds there a thousand unknown seductive charms, and one feel in a state of rare sensuality and refinement. If it were too last long, it would be painful, so unusual is that state, but the one gets used to it and, like everything else, it passes.
